

ABSTRACT

In one aspect, a semiconductor fabrication system includes an air-tight housing in which an inert gas is admittable and exhaustible; and a plurality of deposition chambers positioned within the system.